Back to my story

I ran a retail store in Vietnam for 2.5 years. I sold USA products, and mainly focused on selling hair and body care products. I learned how to connect with them, and figure out why they chose specific products. For instance, women officers like my products as they prefer high-quality products.

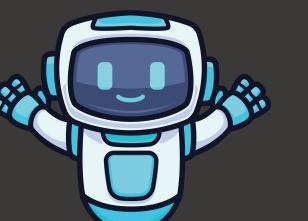

I believe the sales management tool is a wise choice for my retail store as I quickly identified best seller products, slow selling products, and peak time of days. From those insights, I collaborated with my teams to adjust inventory amounts for peak times, and promote best-seller products, and leverage timing insights on Facebook to engage more online customers. My biggest success for this experience was to build a community around my store, and engage 4K organic followers. Customers feel extremely engaged with our offers, and connected with our stores.
